WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT DISASTER PREPAREDNESS

Being prepared for the worst-case scenario is essential for you and your family's well-being during a natural disaster. As the number of natural disasters continues to rise, more people than ever are taking steps to prepare for the worst-case scenario. According to a 2020 Federal Emergency Management Agency study, 81% of respondents have gathered supplies, 65% have sought preparedness information, and 48% have created emergency plans. Be prepared and find out which essential items you should include in your family's preparedness kit.
